

Jamie Wilhelm

SENIOR DESIGN CONSULTANT

Design guru. Industrial designer.
Designers' designer. That is Jamie.

When Jamie first picked up a magazine of Industrial Design, it sealed the deal that making things purposeful and appealing was going to be his destiny. Trained in both ID and graphic design, Jamie can move in and out of the 2D and 3D worlds at Studio Graphique with ease. Clients benefit from Jamie's sense of structure and space, that is paired with a solid understanding of the technology that goes behind it.

An important working core value for Jamie is collaboration, it's part of what attracted him to Studio Graphique. Working in teams and sharing ideas and know-how makes the experience more enjoyable and creates better results. Jamie's own contributions include the ability to ideate high design concepts while understanding and maintaining the technology and computer systems that keep the office running smoothly.

“I enjoy taking a blank sheet and turning it into something engaging. There is nothing in this world that can't be made better with good design.”

---

THINGS YOU MUST KNOW ABOUT JAMIE

Brings the male perspective to an office full of women
Has over 30 pairs of cool patterned socks
Is known to have outbursts of singing and snapping
Enjoys traveling the world to gain appreciation for diversity of the human experience

---

EXTRACURRICULAR

Soccer
Race for the Place (to benefit The Gathering Place), Beachwood, OH
Instructor of Packaging Design at The Cleveland Institute of Art
Instructor of Studio Skills in Visual Communication Design at Kent State University